Hoi Andy

We recently funded VARUN to the amount of $10,000 for the year of jun 2007-jun 2008. We have provided the full funding.

I am very happy with the current status of VARUN and the directions they are going. I would definitely like them to expand their operations, but it is not possible due to the region and the lack of volunteers.

We decided to support Dr. Singh directly using the VARUN funds instead of a fellowship. The reason is that fellowship process is long drawn out questionairre and I felt that if we just put inside the project, less questions will be asked.

AshaSV also supported the idea. If you notice, we are funding $10k rather than the usual $6k. This includes funding for Dr. Singh.

As far as long term plan, it is difficult for VARUN to become self reliant. I wish VARUN to continue with their education and as well as other activities, esp with Self-Help Groups.

Please share with me your ideas and opinions.

Silicon Valley is also getting colder these days. It is close to 0 degrees today morning. But day time it goes up to 18 degress.

Quite interesting climate patterns. I might visit Switzerland for work, we can meetup then.

Cheers
Sathya
